Grounds Management Seminars & Site Visit

Dynamic Water Education and Grounds Mgmt Programs

PGMS is heading back to the "birthplace" of the Regional Seminar and Site Visit program and we want YOU along with us! Join PGMS March 22-23, 2012 as we head to Arizona State University (ASU) in Tempe, Arizona for a program focused specifically on sustainability and water conservation and quality. Just like six years ago, Ellen Newell, CGM, associate director of facilities management at ASU, will lead us through excellent education sessions and not-to-miss tours of the campus and other well-known landscapes.

INCLUDES:

- Behind-the-Scenes Tour of Diverse Grounds Programs - Take an insider's look at best practices at ASU, Singh Farms compost facility, The Phoenician, Arizona's premier AAA Five Diamond Resort and the Desert Botanical Garden.
- Education Seminars will focus on "How will we be looking at and working with water in the future?" Topics will include national and regional views of current and future water availability, alternative sources of water, the importance of an Irrigation Master Plan and how to develop one, how our plants react to environmental stress, and how to maintain the landscape with a water budget.
- Valuable Networking Events - meet other grounds professionals who face the same challenges and issues
